MOUNTAINS FELL IN KANSU QUAKE 200,000 PERISHED

Details Of Disaster Show It Was Worst In Years

RELIEF NEED IMMEDIATE

Drainage, Excavation And Construction Projects Must Be Set Afoot

Peking, April 22.—The first detailed report of the Kansu earthquake which on December 16 last rocked almost the entire Far East and continued for more than a month, is being brought to Peking by H. De Hayes and J. W. Hall who conducted an investigation on behalf of the United International Famine Relief Society.

Whole mountains have collapsed and buried villages, the loose mountain soil spreading in each case over many square li. Mountain streams have been dammed by the landslides and the backed up water is now soaking through the bases of the hills and threatening further disaster. With the added danger from spring rains other mountains and hills will collapse, farm lands will be flooded and homes destroyed. In one district near Chingning along the Lanchow highway, sixteen mountains were practically leveled by the quake. The falling soil buried the cave dwellers and their animals and the destruction in some places was so great that there is now a marked scarcity of laborers. Even those who fled from the famine districts into Kansu are not sufficient in number to care for the work that is immediately necessary, the investigators say.

DISTRESS IS PITIFUL

Mr. Hall and Mr. Hayes traversed the entire devasted district making the diameters both North and South. They found desolation everwhere and people were working frantically but under no general plan to relieve their distress. Their efforts are described as pitifully inadequate.

Some of the best agricultural districts are buried under loose soil from five to fifty feet deep, the mountains spreading out and spreading over the plain like flowing water.

At present Chingning city is threatened with destruction by further slides and if they come, the valley below the city will be covered. Those areas already covered can not be tilled for several years. Even if tilling were possible, there is now such a scarcity of men and animals that the usual crops can not be put in.

At Swenchichow, the larger city was spared, Mr. Hall writes, by an almost miraculous arrest of three slides. Three smaller villages were buried and farm houses were swept away and carried along on the crest of the avalanche. There are many areas affected in this way. One of these is the Hsishitan district where Ma the Moslem leader and hundreds of his braves were killed while at evening prayer.

ENGINEERING NEEDED

In all of these districts, the situation can be relieved by drainage, excavation and certain construction projects, the investigators say. They believe this is the only way of handling the situation. By paying a good wage, the people will be able to buy animals and shorten the duration of the hardship and at the same time prevent further and even wider damage.

The Kansu authorities who at first opposed any kind of relief other than the distribution of money through local officials, are now willing to have the money spent in a more constructive way and under the direct supervision of foreign and Chinese engineers of known reliability.

Mr. Hall said the officials were told that money was of little avail when it could not be used to good advantage. Farm animals might be bought but they could not be used with the country flooded.

A carefully worked excavation project will enable many of the people not only to survive the present trouble but will help protect the country against further damage.

As a national measure, the stricken province should be put into working condition, according to Mr. Hall and Mr. Hayes. The damaged area has an excellent soil, its people are thrifty and capable and they believe they are deserving of all the aid that can be given to them. They insist however that the whole relief project be carefully supervised because of various political and provincial troubles that have been

Apple King Of America Started Business With Dozen Apples

STARTING business a few years ago with a basket containing but a dozen apples and today rated as the "American Apple King," is the remarkable achievement of Joseph Steinhardt, of New York. Mr. Steinhardt handles more apples than any other man in the world and yearly advances millions of dollars to apple growers throughout the country. The photograph shows Mr. Steinhardt with some of his "pippins."

LORD DERBY IS "DEPRESSED" BY IRISH SITUATION

Admits He Went There At Invitation Of Premier—Traveled Incognito

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—Lord Derby has amended his denial regarding his recent visit to Ireland. In a speech at Liverpool he admitted that he went there with the Prime Minister's connivance and that he obtained interviews with a number of prominent people in Ireland on the understanding that he communicate the results to Mr. Lloyd George. Lord Derby expressed his intention of paying a further visit to Ireland. He admitted that he was depressed by the situation there and that he went incognito in order to avoid pressmen.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)

Malta, April 25.—There was a very impressive ceremony at the naval cemetery at Bighi this morning when the Crown Prince of Japan visited the graves of the Japanese sailors who were buried there during the war. His Imperial Highness was accompanied by Admirals De Robeck, Webb, Bartelot and Shand and also by Prince Kanin and Count Chinda. A guard of honor composed of men from the army, navy and air-force was drawn up at the entrance to the cemetery.

The Crown Prince and Prince Kanin first laid three wreaths, including one on behalf of the Emperor and one on behalf of the Japanese nation, at the foot of the memorial which has been erected in memory of the Japanese who lost their lives during the war, and afterwards stood and paid their respects to the glorious dead. Then the Japanese ratings were drawn up and likewise paid a tribute to the dead, while a Japanese staff officer read the Japanese funeral service. Admiral DeRobeck assured the Crown Prince that the graves of the Japanese were well tended by their British comrades.

Later the party returned aboard the Katori and afterwards visited St. John's Cathedral being respectfully acclaimed by crowds on the way. At the Cathedral the royal visitor was received by the Archbishop of Malta and the chapter of the Cathedral and conducted over the famous temple. The Crown Prince then proceeded to the Palace. Lord and Lady Plumer conducting him over the ancient palace of the Grand Masters of Malta. His Imperial Highness had lunch at the Casino Maltese which was decorated for the occasion. Before entering, the Crown Prince was made the object of a most sympathetic ovation by the crowd outside. At lunch the guests drank toasts to King George and to the Emperor of Japan.

The Crown Prince will visit the museum this afternoon and will then attend an At Home given by Lord and Lady Plumer at the San Antonio Palace to which a large number of guests have been invited.

BRITISH DEBT REDUCED BY £259,500,000 DURING YEAR

Chamberlain, In Introducing Record, Boasts Of Achievement

NO NEW TAXATION

Generous Terms Of Proposed New Loan Pleases London

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, Mr. Austen Chamberlain introduced the new budget, the outstanding points of which are as follows:

There will be no additional taxation and the additonal taxes on sparkling wines and cigars, which were imposed last year and which were found to have restricted consumption, will be removed. Legislation is being introduced to terminate the Excess Profits tax Despite the changed conditions, a surplus of £230,500,000 was realised, being only £3,700,000 under last year's estimates. The foreign debt was reduced by £117,000,000, including £75,000,000 paid to the United States.

The reduction of the foreign debt during the past two years had been £203,000,000. Mr. Chamberlain anticipated a further reduction of £103,000,000 in the coming year, he estimated that the surplus of revenue over expenditure in the forthcoming year wonid be £84,000,000.

London, April 25.—In introducing the new budget in the House of Commons, Mr. Austen Chamberlain said that the past year had been one of the most remarkable in our financial history. Trade was prosperous and the prospect rosy when last year's budget was framed. Then deep depression suddenly descended in the autumn. Nevertheless, his estimate of revenue at £1,418,300,000 has been exceeded by £6,600,000 and the realised surplus was £230,530,000.

TAX DISAPPOINTING

In the course of reviewing the revenue, Mr. Chamberlain said that the Corporation Tax was a disappointment owing to the difficulty of putting it into operation, but he thought that it would justify itself. The tax produced only £650,000 instead of £3,000,000 during the past year.

A total of £259,500,000 had been applied to debt reduction during the past year. The internal debt had been reduced by £128,000,000 and the floating debt by £37,000,000. The foreign debt had been reduced by £117,000,000 to £1,161,500,000 on March 31. We had, he said, performed an immense achievement which no other belligerent country had even attempted by reducing our external debt by £203,000,000 in two years. He estimated the total ordinary expenditure for 1921-1922 at £974,000,000. The revenue, after dropping the excess Profits tax and two small changes, was estimated at £1,058,000,000. A substantial proportion of the balance must be kept in hand to meet liabilities arising from losses caused by the coal strike. Any receipts in respect of reparations would be applied to debt reduction. Mr. Chamberlain estimated that it would be possible to reduce the debt from the coming year's surplus by £103,000,000.

DEBT REDUCTION

With regard to the reduction of our debt on March 31, we had paid off in the United States in the past twelve months nearly £75,000,000 and in Canada £20,000,000. We had also paid off our debt to Japan, Spain, the Argentine, Uruguay and Holland.

Except for a comparatively small debt which we owed the Allies, who however were far more largely indebted to us, and a generous loan of £8,000,000 made to us by the Straits Settlements and Mauritius (Cheers) the only debt outside the United States and Canada was one of £826,000 which would be paid to Sweden on its maturity next summer. Arrangements had been made with Canadian bankers to pay off the balance of 125,000,000 dollars owing to them in monthly instalments ending on April 1.

Mr. Chamberlain said that there would be no further reduction of taxation in the current year, but a counle of adjustments would be made. He admitted that he had been wrong last year regarding the effect of increased duties on champagne and cigars, but this, he said, was partly due to the trade depression. There would be a new fixed duty on sparkling wines of fifteen shillings per gallon instead of the seven shillings fixed, and an ad

BRITAIN TO STAND WITH FRANCE ON REPARATION

Lloyd George Promises Support If Germans Remain Obdurate

EXPECT NEW NOTE

Paris Demands Payment Of 1,000,000,000 Gold Marks By April 30

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—In the House of Commons, Mr. Lloyd George stated that following the informal conversation at Lympne, M. Briand promised in the course of a few days to supply the British Government with further detailed information regarding the nature of the French plans and proposals and that when they were received, the Cabinet would consider the whole subject and instruct the delegates representing the Cabinet at the conference on April 30.

The Prime Minister declared that if further German proposals were unsatisfactory, the British Government would support France at the forthcoming conference in the proposals for the occupation of the Westphalian coalfields and that if further coercive measures were contemplated, they would be communicated to the House before any action was taken. Mr. Lloyd George added that they might have further information by April 28.

Paris, April 25.—In consequence of Germany's refusal to transfer the Reichsbank's gold reserves to Cologne or to Coblenz, the Reparations Commission has demanded that 1,000,000,000 gold marks be handed over to it at the Banque de France by April 30.

The Commission expresses disinclination to discuss the relations between the Imperial Government and the Reichsbank, but is convinced that if the former had the goodwill it has every means of complying with the Commission's demand.

Note.—In its reply to the Allied demand for the transfer of the Reichsbank's gold reserves, the German Government stated that it was unable to agree to the demand on the ground that the Reichsbank was a private, independent company and that the removal of the gold reserves would entail a very serious economic crisis in Germany.

KNOX BILL REPORTED

Washington, April 25.—The Senate Foreign Affairs Committee has reported favorably on Senator Knox's resolution to declare the state of war with Germany at an end.

London, April 26.—M. Briand has announced that a meeting of the Supreme Council has been definitely called for the morning of the 30th inst. in London.

London, April 26.—The preparations for the meeting of the Supreme Council at Downing Street on Saturday next are proceeding apace.

M. Loucheur, the French Minister of Liberated Regions, has already arrived in London, and a number of French experts are arriving today to confer with the British experts in regard to the proposed means of compelling Germany to fulfil her obligations.

M. Briand, Marshal Foch, General Weygand and M. Berthelot—of the French Foreign Office—will arrive on Friday, when the Belgian Foreign Minister, M. Jaspar and Count Sforza, the Italian Foreign Minister will also be here.

DEPENDS ON GERMANS

M. Briand has informed the French Cabinet that the duration of the conference in London will depend on the new German proposals. If these are inacceptible, the conference will last only a few days, but if as is improbable, they prove to be acceptable, a week will be required to consider the possible basis of fresh negotiations.

Meanwhile there is no news as to the contents of the German note to America, which, Reuter's Washington correspondent states, had not been received by the State Department up to yesterday evening.

Vienna, April 25.—A telegram from Innsbruck shows that according to the results obtained up to the present of the plebiscite in the Tyrol, 80,000 voted in favor of union with Germany and 1,200 against.

HOOVER AND HUGHES OUT FOR CHINA TRADE ACT

Secretaries Of Commerce And State Endorse Federal Incorporation

BOTH WRITE DYER

Declared Essential For Preservation Of Trade With This Country

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, April 25.—The passage of the China Trade Act is declared as essential for the preservation of American trade in China by the Secretary fo Commerce, Mr. Herbert Hoover, in a letter to Congressman Dyer. Mr. Hoover said he wished to emphasise the importance of the Act, which was intended to put American business on an equal footing with that of Great Britain, France and Japan, dependent for its expansion and control upon Americans working jointly with Chinese representatives of manufacturing and other industries.

The Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, also wrote to Mr. Dyer, advocating the enactment of the measure, and saying that the State Department was in sympathy with the general provisions of the Bill.

SAYS GALLIPOLI VICTORY WOULD HAVE ENDED WAR

Churchill Attributes Present World Chaos To Failure Of Expedition

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—Speaking in London at the Australasians' celebration of the sixth anniversary of the Anzac landing at Gallipoli, Mr. Churchill made an interesting reference to the forthcoming conference of Dominions' Prime Ministers, which he described as: "the first meeting in peace-time of the Imperial Cabinet."

The Empire, Mr. Churchill proceeded, had to find a way out of the difficulties into which it was plunged by the chaos of war, to re-establish prosperous conditions of trade throughout the Empire and to carry forward the sense of co-operation which grew up out of the war. Great Britain had taken the utmost pains to place before her overseas colleagues information regarding the subjects for discussion and to receive from them suggestions for additional topics. Mr. Churchill looked forward to a successful conference.

Mr. Churchill proceeded to justify the Gallipoli expedition citing the German statement in 1915 to the effect that if the Dardanelles had been forced the war would have been decided against Germany. He maintained that instead of fighting hopeless and disastrous battles at Loose and in the Champagne we could with half the reinforcements and shells necessary for that purpose have overwhelmed Turkey. He considered that all the present evils, the downfall of Russia, the chaos of the East, the exhaustion of economic resources and the almost fatal embarrassment of the financial position, flowed from the prolongation of the struggle, due to the failure, of the Dardanelles expedition, which he ascribed to the errors of divided counsels in London.

Solemnity Marks Moving Of U.S. Dead

(Reuter's Service)

Liege, April 25.—Moving scenes marked the passing through here of boats bearing the bodies of ninety-six Americans who fell at St. Mihiel which are being transported along the river from Verdun to Antwerp for conveyance to America. Troops rendered military honors as the boats, covered with flowers, moved to the quay, where they were awaited by the leading officials and delegations of ex-service men. After sympathetic speeches to the officers accompanying the convoy, wreaths were laid on the coffins and the boats resumed their journey, cavalry accompanying them along the river bank. Large crowds on both sides of the river uncovered as the solemn procession wended its way.

Hike From Los Angeles To New York On Honeymoon

ANNOUNCING that they had walked approximately 2,800 miles in fifty-six days from California, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Richards, of Long Beach, Cal., arrived in New York recently and, incidentally, won a $2,000 wager. The "honeymoon" hikers, as they were called, were married just before they started their hike.

PEKING SOLONS GOING SOUTH TO SUPPORT DR. SUN

Ex-Parliamentarians Proceed To Canton To Legalise Presidential Election

(Wireless to the China Press)

Peking, April 26.—A large majority of the members of the defunct Parliament who had remained in Peking after their colleague had gone over to the South have voted to proceed to Canton to join the Southern Extraordinary session of Parliament. The action intends to legalise the election of Dr. Sun Yat-sen as President of the South China Republic.

It is understood that Dr. Sun has promised the Peking body full participation in the legislature in Canton. Traveling expenses of the Peking members are being sought from the Parliament Club of Shanghai. Since the dissolution of their body, the Peking members have been receiving government salaries as members of the Finance Investigating Committee.

The Peking members recently attempted to persuade the Government to cancel the parliamentary elections in the provinces in order to reinstate them to their original position, but the administration is determined to carry out the election. As a result, the defunct legislators are sailing for Canton as a measure of retaliation.

Limit Placed On Physicians' Booze

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, April 24.—An arbitrary limit of 4½ gallons of beer and 3 gallons of wines is the maximum amount of liquor that a physician is allowed to have in his possession, under regulations which are awaiting the approval of the new Internal Revenue Commissioner, Mr. Blair.

Governor Stephens Urges Exclusion

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Stockton, April 22.—Governor Stevens of California, addressing "Native Sons of the Golden West," pleaded for the exclusion of Asiatics. He declared that immigrants should be excluded unless they came with the intention of becoming citizens and could speak English.

AMNESTY BILL PASSES

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

New York, April 24.—Advices from Paris state that the French Chamber of Deputies has passed the general amnesty bill by 528 votes to 14, after inserting an amendment providing for appeal from any courtmartial sentence on the motion of the soldier concerned or of his heirs.

GOLDEN STATE DUE TODAY; ECUADOR, WENATCHEE, 28TH

Admiral Line's First Shipping Board Boat Has Seattle Commercial Mission

The Pacific Mail liner Golden State is due to arrive at Shanghai this afternoon, on the return portion of its first trip to the East. It could not be stated yesterday whether or not the vessel would come up the river to the Standard Oil buoy, or remain at Woosung. It will depend upon the time of its arrival, and the stage of the tides. The steamer will sail tomorrow for San Francisco.

Tomorrow another of the Pacific Mail steamers, the Ecuador, will dock at the China Merchants Central Wharf. The Ecuador is reported out of Kobe on Monday, April 25. The Ecuador comes from San Francisco.

The Admiral Line's first "535" vessel, the Wenatchee, is due in port tomorrow. It is expected that it will dock at the China Merchants' wharf but no definite announcement could be made last night. The Wenatchee is bringing to Shanghai, among other passengers, a number of prominent business men and members of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club, who are touring the Far East promoting friendly relations between the Orient's business centers and the city of Seattle. The time that the ship will spend in each port will be devoted to seeing and learning as much as possible of a business and commercial nature.

The party includes, among others, Captain J. S. Gibson, chairman of the Steamship Wenatchee Celebration committee, chairman of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce Naval Affairs Committee and president of the International Stevedoring Company and the Seattle Stevedoring Company; Mr. E. G. Anderson, vice-president pro tem of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Foreign Trade Bureau of that organisation and president of the Western Dry Goods Company; Mr. H. C. Henry, president of the Metropolitan Bank, president of the Pacific Creosoting Company and a prominent railroad builder and promoter; Mr. J. A. Swalwell, president of the Seattle Union National Bank, a member of the organisation committee of the American Foreign Trade Financing Corporation and a trustee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce; Mr. J. H. Fox, president of the Seattle Commercial Boiler Works, former president of the Arctic Club and a trustee of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. F. G. Frink, vice-president of the Washington Iron Works and Mr. C. E. Hill, secretary of the Douglas Fir Exploitation and Exporting Company.

The new steamship Keystone State, second of the transpacific liners allocated to the Admiral Line for operation to the Orient, will sail from New York April 30.

RAILWAYMEN NOT TO MOVE COAL UNTIL STRIKE ENDS

National Union Places Ban On Shipments From Overseas

OUTLOOK GLOOMY

Offer Of New Terms By Owners Causes Slight Glimmer Of Hope

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—It is officially announced that the Executive of the National Union of Railwaymen has instructed its members not to move coal from colliery sidings pending a settlement of the miners' dispute and also not to handle coal from overseas.

London, April 26.—While the general opinion is that there is now a glimmer of hope of a settlement of the coal crisis, owing to the new terms offered by the owners, the official order to the railwaymen not to handle coal is a very disturbing development, for six men who obeyed the order at Nottingham have been suspended and a sympathetic strike by the others is feared.

London, April 25.—The conference between the coal owners, miners and the Government has adjourned until 3 o'clock tomorrow. The official report states that the conference considered the statement of the coal owners making the following proposals for a durable settlement: First, wages shall depend on ability to pay. The coalfields shall be divided into agreed areas. Secondly, there shall be standard wages and standard profits. The wages shall be the first charge on the industry and the surplus revenue from the area shall be divided between the owners and the miners.

Proposals for a temporary settlement are that for three months the wages reductions shall be uniform, not exceeding the amount fixed by the Government, owners and miners for each month. The owners shall receive no part of the surplus revenue of any area if the effect is to reduce the wages in the previous month; nor shall they take the standard profits wholly or in part if the result is to reduce wages more than the maximum fixed. The Government shall, where necessary, make such contribution to any area as to prevent a reduction of wages exceeding the maximum fixed for the month.

Chinese Envoy To France Honored

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 25.—The presentation of a Doctorate of the University of Paris to Chu Chi-chen, the head of the Chinese mission of France, on behalf of the President of the Chinese Republic, was conducted with great ceremony. About two thousand persons were present, including ex-President Poincare, Marshal Joffre, Marshal Fayolle, M. Painleve and Cardinal Dubois. President Millerand was speially represented. Speeches were delivered by the Rector of the University, Chu Chi-chen, M. Painleve and members of the French Institute and Academy.

Chu Chi-chen will arrive in London on April 30 and will present King George with an autograph letter from the Chinese President.

Weeks Wants Army Increased To 183,000

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, April 22.—Estimates for the maintenance of an army of 183,000 enlisted men for the year beginning July 1 were laid before the House Appropriations Committee today by Secretary Weeks who said it would cost an additional $20,000,000 to provide pay and subsistence for the increase from 150,000 men, which the last Congress agreed should be the maximum.

EMPIRE CONFERENCE

(Reuter's Service)

Ottawa, April 25.—The Prime Minister Mr. Meighan has announced that the conference of Dominions Prime Ministers at London in June would discuss the question of the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

SIGNOR MOLINARI' FAMOUS TENOR, SINGING TONIGHT

Signor Antonio Molinari of Milan, who is advertised to give an operatic recital at the Olympic Theater tonight is in the front rank of Italian operatic singers and if better known in Shanghai he would be assured of a crowded house.

Although comparatively young, being only 32 years of age, he has already achieved notable successes in operatic companies under the conductorship of Puccini, Leoncavallo and Mascagni. He went to Australia some years ago with the Quinlan Opera Company and met with such success as to warrant his staying there for a lengthy period. He is now with his wife sightseeing in the Far East enroute from Australia to London, where he commences an engagement in October with the Beecham Grand Opera Company at Covent Garden.

It was not Signor Molinari's intention to give any recitals in Shanghai and that he is doing so is due entirely to the efforts of local musicians who have had an opportunity to hear him. There is no question but that he is a great artist and it will be a long time before another singer of such brilliance is likely to be heard in Shanghai.

Signor Molinari possesses a voice of remarkable timbre and sustaining powers. Throughout his compass there is no perceptible break, his top notes being emitted with a continuation of the chest register, and thus all his degrees are of the same legato, evenness of tone and timbre. He produces a top "c" as easily as the note an octave below, while it rings and resounds with a clearness and penetration delightful to listen to. He sings his operatic numbers as only an Italian knows how to sing them, and he will almost certainly receive the same ovation here as elsewhere.

While in Australia he married an Australian lady, also a highly-trained singer and well known in Australia and New Zealand as a dramatic soprano. She will assist at the recital tonight and in particular her duets with Signor Molinari are certain to give great pleasure to those who attend.

Tonight will be also the last opportunity of hearing Professor Harry Ore, formerly of the Petrograd Conservatoire of music, who has made his residence in Shanghai for some time past, as he leaves in a few days for a long concert tour. He is playing by special request Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and Greig's "Ballade."

Chang Tso-lin Now Expected In Peking

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, April 24.—General Chang Tso-lin's bodyguard is said to be removing from Chunliangcheng to Langfang, which is taken as an indication that General Chang will come on to Peking.

His visit will allay a certain amount of irritation that has been caused among Chinese by the decision of Generals Chang and Tsao Kun to hold their conferences in Tientsin and make it incumbent upon the Premier to leave the capital to meet them.

It is taken for granted that General Tsao Kun will come to Peking if General Chang Tso-lin does—

Peking, April 26:—The conferences in Tientsin are proceeding smoothly and without interruption. It is now expected that the Premier, Chin Yung-peng, will return to Peking this evening.

It is stated unofficially that General Wang Chan-yuan approves of the Government's plan for carrying out the elections, but desires to delay them, so as to enable him to ascertain the views of the other Yangtsze Tuchuns. This is believed to be Wang's attitude on most questions, showing that, while he may be able to influence the other Yangtsze provinces, he is unable to commit them to support of the Government.

Wang Chan-yuan's personal sympathy towards the Government however is believed to be beyond question, and thus the outlook is considered to be more hopeful.

The Anfuites' first bid for power, viz., by putting forward Tsao Yu-lin as prospective Finance Minister, has been brought to nothing through the opposition of Chang Tso-lin and Wang Chan-yuan, who are most resolute in their attitude on this matter.

While there are still unconfirmed rumors of possible changes in the Cabinet, it appears to be certain that the friendship between Yeh Kung-cho (Minister of Communications) and Chang Tso-lin remains unimpaired.

"Irene"

Miss Joan Penrose, who played "Helen Cheston" in last night's Bandman Company production of "Irene," fainted in the last act just prior to the final curtain and the company was obliged to halt the performance while the young lady was taken to her dressing room. A physician was called and Miss Penrose regained consciousness only to faint soon after the physician had gone. She was again revived and while being taken in an automobile, to the Palace Hotel, she again fainted. A doctor was called to the hotel and attended her.

Miss Penrose has been ill for several days but was obliged to take on the part as her understudy is also ill. She received attention from a physician prior to the performance and had fainted twice yesterday afternoon.

Miss Penrose's attack was one of a series of misfortunes under which the company worked last night in producing the great musical comedy which is playing its second year on Broadway. New carbons in the spotlights bothered Miss Dolly Prince in the first act when she, as "Irene," has a long dialogue with Eric Masters, who played "Donald Marshall." And lack of a spotlight worked from the gallery lost the effect in the tenement house scenes.

But Shanghai will be whistling "Alice Blue Gown," "The Last Part of Every Party," "Castle of Dreams" and "Irene" today and more will be whistling and humming the melodies tomorrow, for "Irene" is to be repeated tonight.

Dolly Prince, Jack Crichton, Eric Masters and Madeline Rossiter were the big four of the production and Dolly Prince was a pleasing surprise. She got her songs over much better than her words, particularly in the first act when she brought the house down with "Alice Blue Gown" but was a bit disappointing in her long dialogue with Mr. Masters.

Miss Prince really sang well and danced nicely. It is difficult for an English girl to portray an American department store girl but Miss Prince sounded several short "A's" and had nearly everything but the gum. Her singing alone would carry her through.

Jack Crichton did well in the role of "Madame Lucy" and Madeline Rossiter as one of the Madame's press agents was excellent. Miss Penrose was Miss Rossiter's running mate and although she was fighting the fainting spell all evening, was quite acceptable. Miss Penrose's display of pluck was the subject of admiring comment among the big audience.

Miss Prince and Mr. Masters will be even better tonight for they will know their parts better and the dialogue in the first act is one of the features of the show.

Jean Desormes and his orchestra deserve mention.

Sir Robert Ho Tung Sees President Hsu

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, April 25.—Sir Robert Ho Tung was was given an audience this morning by the President, who questioned him, among other things, concerning the Chinese of Hongkong. He evinced great interest in the University of Hongkong, as well as in the intellectual advancement of the Chinese there.

President Hsu Shih-chang expressed his pleasure at Sir Robert's industrial connections, and remarked that he hoped for a greater interest in industrial development in China.

Sir Reginald Stubbs and Sir Robert Ho Tung subsequently lunched with His Excellency at the Palace.

Ungern Attack On Two Towns Feared

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, April 24.—The reports of the Chinese official observer, dated Manchuli, April 12 and 13, contain the following:

"There is a certain amount of alarm among the civil population of Manchuli and Hailar, concerning the possibility of the Ungern and Seminoff forces attempting to seize these two places with the assistance of armed Mongols.

"Undoubtedly there are quite a number of former White officers both at Manchuli and Hailar and it is said that quantities of arms and ammunition are secreted in the district. There was considerable leakage in the numbers of arms handed over by the Whites to the Chinese military authorities when the Kappel and Seminoff troops evacuated Transbaikalia, and many rifles and rounds of ammunition were openly sold by soldiers, etc., at Manchuli when the Whites were disarmed.

"Seeing that Ungern has expressed his friendly intentions to Chang Tso-lin, it seems hardly likely that he would do such an unfriendly act as to engage the Chinese troops stationed west of the Hingan mountain range, but it is possible that certain Mongol chiefs with former White Russian officers, who have nothing in common with the Chinese military in Manchuria, will act independently and try to recover the territory which formerly belonged to Outer Mongolia.

"At the present moment, owing to the changing of the Tuchun of Heilungkiang and the troop commanders at different places in this province, there is a general withdrawal of troops who are to be replaced by others yet to arrive, so that the garrison at Manchuli is now reduced to less than 1,000, General Chang, the commander, having already left with some of his troops, while the new commander, General Wei, has not yet arrived."

"It is reported that a detachment of armed Mongolian cavalry is advancing upon Hailar from a southerly direction, but whether an attack will be attempted is not clear. The Chinese military authorities are taking precautionary measures.

"Yesterday (April 12) there was quite a panic in Manchuli owing to a rumour that a strong Mongol force assisted by many White officers was within 100 versts of the town. The Chinese military authorities have announced that persons spreading such idle reports will be severely dealt with.

"By permission of the local Ssu Ling Pou, a special armed Russian guard has been allowed to enter Manchuli to protect Transbaikal property. In all 30 men arrived with 17 rifles. They wear no uniform as they will act merely as watchmen. The request for this guard was made by the Chita Government's diplomatic representative, M. Alexandrovsky, because of the three recent armed robberies of representatives of the Chita Government."

prevalent there. The laborers should be carefully selected so that the most deserving are employed.

WORK MUST BEGIN SOON

Unless work is begun soon, the dwellings can not be put up before fall and the excavations will have to hold over and remain a constant menace to the whole district.

Scarcity of artisans is marked throughout the quake district. Most of these had retired on the night of the first quake and were buried in the ruins of their homes.

Several plans have been proposed there by local officials and some foreigners, but the task is too large to be handled locally, the men believe. It is imperative now that the best field engineers available be sent there to make a survey of the proposed work and prepare for the excavating.

It is estimated that $300,000 spent now in well supervised work, will be of lasting benefit and will go far to relieve the situation.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Heyes are bringing back not only carefully prepared data that will be of interest to geologists and others but they are bringing also the first pictorial history of the quake which was the greatest in many years. It is estimated that more than 200,000 persons were killed.

It has been suggested in Peking that a series of lectures illustrated by lantern slides be given in Peking and Tientsin.

Taking Measures To Prevent Labor Demonstration Here

The Military Governor and other local authorities are making preparations to deal with expected labor demonstrations on May 1. Telegrams have recently been received by General Ho from Peking warning him of the activities of Bolshevik agitators and the Governor has issued instructions to his subordinates to prevent all massmeetings on labor day.

A circular letter calling upon all "fellow citizens of the laboring class" to unite for a demonstration against the capitalist class on that date has just come into the hands of the police. It is issued by the "May Day Celebration Preparatory Office," located in Avenue Joffre.

ASSOCIATION OF MIDDLE SCHOOLS MEETS FRIDAY

The second annual meeting of the Association of Christian Middle Schools of East China will be held at the Y.M.C.A., 120 Szechuen Road, Friday, beginning at 9:10 a.m.

The first item on the program will be a talk to be followed by discussion on how to promote closer relations with the Chinese educational world. This will be followed by the report of the committee on government recognition of Christian schools. The government has now promulgated regulations for the registration of mission middle schools and these are being translated and will be placed in the hands of delegates and the committee will advise as to the best methods of procedure.

There will be a report by the accrediting committee and an announcement concerning the coming of an educational commission representing foreign mission boards of Great Britain and America, after which the reorganisation committee will report.

The afternoon session will be taken up with a report on literature available to meet questions raised by students concerning religion and consideration of agricultural education problems. Officers are to be elected and other ordinary business transacted.

Tale Of 25,000 Mile Hegira Of Little Russian Refugees Told American College Club

Mrr. C. M. Campbell, Of Red Cross, Gives Interes ing Details Of Modern Children's Crusade

BY ELSIE McCORMICK

A modern Children's Crusade composed of little Russian refugees who traveled around the world in order to cover in safety the short distance between Petrograd and their camp in the Ural Mountains was described by Mrs. C. M. Campbell yesterday afternoon before a meeting of the American College Club held at St. John's University. Cut off from their homes by the clash between the Red and White forces, the children wandered for nearly three years over a distance of more than 25,000 miles before they were returned to their families. Mrs. Campbell accompanied the party on its strange hegira, as a representative of the American Red Cross.

In May, 1918, when the ring of hunger began to tighten around Russia, about a thousand children were sent by their parents to a colony in the Ural Mountains where the food was believed to be more plentiful. A teacher and matron accompanied each group of ten children, and the colony began its existence as a huge picnic with no shadow of the long, long trek across the world that was to come during the next few years.

RED CROSS HELPS

But the pleasure of the picnic was soon dimmed by that joykiller of so many outings—an empty lunch basket. Cut off from communication with the outside world by the struggle between Kolchak and the Reds, the colony soon faced a depleted food supply even more serious than the one from which the little refugees had fled. The population of the children's city dropped precipitately from more than 1,000 to somewhat over 700. When the rations were reduced almost to a minimum, Kolchak asked that the American Red Cross become godmother to the unhappy colony.

Seeing but little hope of improvement as long as the children remained in the Urals, their new guardians bundled them aboard what was left of the Trans-Siberian Railroad and brought them to Vladivostok. Here, for a year and a half, they lived in soldiers' barracks, went to school, ate three good meals a day plus anything else they could find, and led as normal lives as the situation would permit. An attempt to send them home was thwarted by the beginning of trouble with the Japanese and the development of a No Man's Land along the route of the Trans-Siberian Railroad, over which no engineer, regardless of his political coloring, was willing to chaperon a locomotive.

In June, 1920, the Red Cross chartered a freighter and rebuilt it as a troop-ship. The equipment, however, would have caused mutiny in a regular army, for there were only six steam kettles to cook food for 1,000 people and the ship was so inconveniently arranged that its population spent most of its time navigating the ladderlike stairs leading down into the various hatches.

BUT TWO DEATHS

While the flight of nearly a thousand children around the world to escape passing between two opposing armies may appeal to the sentiments of those who had nothing to do with the voyage, the Red Cross representatives who escorted the party soon lost any contact with its poetic significance. Early in the voyage, various cherubs on board developed a fancy for throwing things down the funnels to the exasperation of the Japanese firemen, balancing themselves on the rail to the terror of their guardians, playing tag on the bridge, touching everything they were not supposed to touch, and picking the ice-box locks with a deftness that would do credit to Houdini.

No matter how much they were given at meals—and despite the six kettles it was sufficient—the children invariably committed depredations in the galley. They always took food remnants to bed with them, preferably something soft and sticky, to hide under their pillows for future consideration.

By some miracle, however, none of them went overboard, and the only casualties among the children was the death of a little girl who was bitten by a Panama Canal Mosquito and the going off of an "unloaded" gun that resulted in the death of a small boy.

GO THROUGH CANAL

In San Francisco, the children were cared for in barracks at Fort Scott and fed up to the combustion point by sympathetic inhabitants. Their journey through the Panama Canal was featured by a temperature of 120 degrees in the galley, and a gift of 100 gallons of ice-cream which the children were awakened late at night to consume, and which they dispatched with record-breaking velocity. At Panama also their guardians secured 500 pineappies for a special treat, but before morning came 400 of them had disappeared without a trace of leaf, peeling, or stomachache to furnish a clue.

In New York City, where the freighter traded its cargo of sugar for one of coal, 15 of the 87 war prisoners departed without leaving P. P. C. cards, the children opened up a second edition of the Russo-Japanese War with members of the crew, and a miniature Soviet drew up resolutions regarding the course that the ship was to take. Once at sea, however, the children became so occupied with their old recreation of throwing things down funnels and balancing themselves on rails that they forgot their more recent activities. After landing at last in Helsingfors, the little refugees were taken to a sanitarium near the Russian border to await word from their parents.

In the meantime the names and descriptions of the children were sent to every American Consulate in Europe and published in every available newspaper. Within a week after their arrival, 300 letters were received from parents in Russia. Eventually, after some delay, 90 percent of the children were claimed by families and guardians who had not seen them for over two years and who in most cases had not the slightest notion where they were.

Perhaps the wanderings of the little Russian refugees do not differ so much from the Children's Crusade after all. Despite the coating of glamor placed around the event by history, we don't doubt in the least that Peter the Hermit or whoever it was who conducted them spanked more than one little Crusader during the march and that the provisions were no safer on the pilgrimage to the Holy Land than they were in the journey from Russia to Russia.

British Debt Cut By £259,500,000

valorem charge of 33 1 3 percent. He anticipated a small increase in revenue therefrom. The ad valorem duty on cigars would be abandoned. The alterations regarding sparkling wines and cigars would come into operation on May 10.

EXPECTS TO COLLECT TAX

Mr. Chamberlain said he expected to collect £150,000,000 arrears of the Excess Profits tax this year and a smaller sum next year. Debt to the extent of £300,000,000 would have to be dealt with, and it would be necessary to re-borrow the difference between that amount and the sum available for debt redemption. The present time was unfavorable for an attempt to fund the floating debt, but the time would come when a serious effort should be made to secure the conversion of some national war bonds, maturing not later than 1925, into longer-dated securities.

Mr. Chamberlain stated that prospectuses were being issued tonight, offering National War-Bond holders a new three and a half percent conversion loan, redeemable at par in 1961. The rates would vary according to the different classes of bonds, a hundred pounds' worth of which would be exchangeable at from 163 shillings to 160, according to the date of maturity. The total amount of bonds outstanding to which the offer applied was £632,000,000. If all of them were converted, the resulting figure would just exceed £1,000,000,000. This loan was a necessary preliminary to the funding of the floating debt. A new comversion loan over forty years would represent a return of between 114 and 112 shillings percent.

TREASURY PROGRAM

In conclusion, Mr. Chamberlain, reviewing the Treasury program of the past two years, said that the foundation had been laid for a steady improvement when industrial disputes had been settled and trade could again revive. He had, he said, wiped off a large part of our foreign debt, restored our international credit and made it clear to doubters that we could and should continue to hold the proud position of premier financial center of the world. (Cheers.)

London, April 26.—According to the prospectus of the new loan issue, forecasted by Mr. Chamberlain in his budget speech and now issued, 1922 War Bonds will be exchanged for the new loan at 163 percent, and 1925 bonds at 160 percent. In order to encourage early conversion, a commission of five shillings percent will be paid to banks and stock-brokers on bonds converted not later than May 18.

London, April 26.—City circles are of the opinion that the most sensational feature of an otherwise colorless budget is the generous terms of the new loan, the object of which is to wipe out the £632,000,000 of National war-bonds which will mature between now and 1925.

The new loan becomes a permanent loan, similar to Consols, but the terms, it is thought, will arouse the envy of the holders of Consols.

It is hoped that the loan, by securing cheaper money, will give a big stimulus to industry.

The critics of the Government, however, declare that the budget is a necessary evil, and that it has put the majority of members of Parliament into the dolorums.

Mr. J. M. Hogge (Edinburgh, East) says that the budget is the calm before the storm which will be upon us between 1922 and 1929, when the war-debt maturities must be faced.

After the budget speech, member followed member in declaring that the country could not this year raise anything like a thousand millions sterling, and that, further, if the estimated revenue were realised, the net result would be to intensify the economic depression, and to increase the legions of the unemployed.

The Times asks: "Where are the drastic reductions in expenditure?" and recalls the Prime Minister's cataclysmal letter to the Ministers of August 20, 1919, ordering them to reduce expenditure or "to make room for those who can." The journal declares that that is the public temper today.

ENGINEERS MAY QUIT

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 25.—A great strike of marine engineers and allied workers is threatened on May 1. Trade Union circles state that the British engineers have deferred negotiations with their employers until April 29, in order to await the outcome of the situation in America.

Opium Salesmen Forfeit $600 Bail

The sum of $600 in bail money was confiscated by the Mixed Court yesterday when three men charged with keeping a place for the sale of opium failed to appear. The Court also ordered confiscated and handed over to the Customs for destruction 52 1/2 pounds of raw and 29 1/2 pounds of prepared opium which was seized in the police raid. Dr. Fischer, engaged to defend the accused, asked a remand in the proceedings but this was disallowed, with the understanding that if good cause were shown a rehearing might be applied for.

Four Chinese school teachers were gathered in by a raid made by the police on an opium den at 442 Foochow Road, together with three women smokers. Of the seven four forfeited their $20 bail by non-appearance in court and the others paid fines of $3 each. The proprietor of a den at 264 Pakhoi Road was sentenced to a month's imprisonment and seven smokers drew the usual fine.

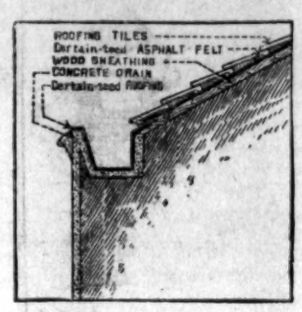
ROOFING SUGGESTIONS

For Building Owners (No. 6)

Gutters and drains are called on for hard service—help them out with a lining of

Certain-teed



Whatever type of roof is used—tile, concrete or metal—the water eventually runs into a gutter along the edge.

If this is concrete, it is naturally porous and the water will permeate through to the interior; if metal, it is subject to rust and holes with resulting leaks.

These troubles are not unavoidable. A lining of Certain-teed Roofing

will render the concrete impervious and protect the metal from leaky holes.

Recommended by architects and contractors and builders.

REV. PAUL RADER DELIVERS SECOND ADDRESS HERE

Rev. Paul Rader, the noted evangelist, gave another of his characteristic and forcible talks at the Ella M. Stewart Memorial Church, 106 Szechuen road, on Monday evening. There was a fairly large gathering in spite of the heavy rain.

The Scripture read was the second chapter of Mark, verses one to twelve. He spoke from the words "And it was noised that he was in the house," applying the words to man as representing a house.

In the course of the address he dwelt on the human disposition, which be it ever so trained and cultivated, still contained all the elements of evil possible. We might not do as the other person did that we so despised, he said, but we were guilty of other things that were equally reprehensible. People did not dare to face their own disposition, and unless they were hopelessly doped or used the latest scientific hypodermic to decaden their sense of sin, they knew that they were wrong.

Men who were carefully trained at home, who had scorned to defile themselves with sin, when they came to places in the East were guilty of vileness that they never had suspected themselves to be possible of. But there was victory for all who would turn over their disposition to Christ. He could cleanse it to the uttermost and keep it clean.

Nearly a score of people made their way to the altar at the close of the address.

It has been decided to discontinue the meetings at 106 N. Szechuen Road but there may be opportunity for Mr. Rader to give another address before he leaves, and due notice of this will be given.

Roads Committee To Hold First Annual Meeting

A national movement for good roads will be launched at the first annual meeting of the Good Roads Movement of the Pan Pacific Union to be held at the Y.M.C.A. on May 5 at 5:15 o'clock, according to an announcement of Dr. C. T. Wang, chairman of the committee.

A constitution for the movement is expected to be adopted and the purpose of the movement and the work of the committee will be outlined. Reports of the committee will be received. A map prepared by the chairman of the survey committee, Mr. Sidney J. Powell, is being sent with each invitation. The map shows the suggested route for the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow Highways.

NEW SPANISH CONSUL

The new Spanish Consul-General, Don Luis Rubio Amoedo who arrived here last week, is the first consul of his nationality of the first class to which the local consulate has been raised since the departure of Mr. Julio Palencia, who was transferred to Hendaye, France.

Senor Rubio Amoedo is a noted writer. Several of his works have been translated into other languages. He was chief of the section of political law of the Royal Academy of Jurisprudence of Madrid, an honorary member of the Association of Writers and Artists and member of the Artists' Club of Barcelona.

Before coming to the present post, Senor Rubio Amoedo was Consul at Bombay. He was sometime Charge d'Affaires for Spain at Santo Domingo and Paraguay. He has been decorated by his own as well as other governments.

Shanghai College Notes

Mr. George D. Hubbard, Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell University, and Professor of Geology and Geography at Oberlin for the past ten years, has just arrived in Shanghai and is giving lectures at Shanghai College. Doctor Hubbard is spending his sabbatical year in China, having already visited Peking, where he received invitations from a large number of Government schools to address the students. After that he went to Szechuan, where he studied the rock formations in regions beyond those covered by Willis and Blackwelder of the famous Carnegie expedition. He also gave lectures to the students of the West China Union University, as well as to students of many Government schools, and took parties of students out for field surveys.

Doctor Hubbard visited and addressed the students of the university Nanking and of the Government Teachers' College, and made rough surveys of the country around there. He expects to remain in Shanghai for about two weeks and then visit Hongkong and Canton before he returns to America. He is scheduled to deliver a series of lectures at the Canton Christian College.

The Glee Club has just returned from a very successful tour under the leadership of Professor Anderson, to the towns of Hangchow, Shaohing, Huchow and Soochow. This is the first time that any such trip has been attempted. Prof. Anderson has done remarkable work in training the young men so that they were able to give such creditable entertainments, which were accorded enthusiastic reception wherever they went. In Hangchow they gave two concerts, one to an audience of Hangchow Christian College faculty and students and the other in the city to over 1,000 people.

The program consisted of singing by the Glee Club, two numbers by a double quartette, a solo, two mandolin duets, besides numerous college songs and popular music, together with an exhibition of Chinese Shadow Speaking and a short dramatic performance.

At Shaohing Messrs. Yue and Ma, the principal and vice principal of the Boys Academy had prepared a splendid reception for the musicians. In Huchow the College singers divided their time between the Baptist Boys' Academy, the Chinese Commercial School, the Methodist Boys' School, and the Virginia School for Girls, and received the reward of well packed houses.

In Soochow they entertained large audiences of students at Yates Academy and at the Laura Haygood Normal School.

Will Ask Merchants To Close Up Shops On 'Disgrace Day'

Shanghai shopkeepers will be asked to close their establishments and to fly the flag of the Republic at half-mast on May 9—the "Day of National Disgrace"—according to a decision made by the members of the Amalgamated Association of Street Unions.

The Foundation of Good Cookery
Add a Spoonful of BOVRIL—
It makes the whole dish more nourishing
In making all your soups, pies, stews and gravies, add a spoonful of Bovril. It is the really economical way of cooking. Bovril not only adds to the dish the concentrated nourishment contained in itself; it also greatly increases the nourishment given by all the other ingredients.
Independent scientific investigation has proved that Bovril has not only a high direct nutritive value, but that it possesses unique powers of making other foods yield up their nutriment.
Bovril greatly improves the flavour and savouriness of every dish. It adds the concentrated goodness of prime beef—the vital elements which give beef its special place as a food. You are sure of being nourished if you take Bovril.
The body-building powers of Bovril have been proved to be from 10 to 20 times the amount taken.

New Orleans Nine Busy This Week

The U.S.S. New Orleans baseball team, which defeated Shanghai on Sunday, will journey out to Jessfield this afternoon to play Coach Porterfield's St. John's University nine.

On Saturday the sailors are billed to play Shanghai Baptist College and this means that the Shanghai civilians will be without a game. Evidently there has been some mixup in the arrangements as the locals figured on playing the New Orleans Saturday and Sunday.

SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

CASE OF DUAL PERSONALITY

Little Black Man From Egypt And Little Eva Combined In Gink Fowler

BY 'BUGS' BAER

Sports Editor,

It is only my incurable ailment of fair play that causes me to borrow a lead pencil and write to you. Gink Fowler was only a unfeathered sophomore compared with Skeets Watson, of the Eastern Shore, Maryland. Skeets won every fight he ever swung an axe in. He was a lumberman. Used to chip down Xmas trees for the little children in the merry Yuletide season. This early training saturated him with the love of his fellowman. Mixed up with this was a curious theory, gained from Doc Osler, that no man should live to be over forty years of age. Two vital and strange characteristics were thus ever tearing at Skeets's heartstrings. He would stake an opponent to a terrific beating and then break down and sob like a child with its thumb caught in its own teeth. He was never official champion because he was too tender to finish a man after he had jumped on him eight times, crashed him with a blackjack and then thrown him on the N. Y. P. and N. tracks. Engineers always finished Skeets's jobs. But he could have walloped Gink Fowler and served him up buttered or dry.

Yours in fair play,
FELIX MAHONEY.

There have been hundreds of letters received at this office concerning Gink Fowler, the champion of Roughtown. We chose this one because the symptoms described coincide exactly with Fowler's queer case. He was born in March, the month that comes in like a lion and exist like a lamb stew. His horoscope showed that he was born under the malignant influence of the star Thermos and the benign atmosphere of the planet Bromo-seltzer.

Thus, he had a dual personality. The Little Black Immigrant from Egypt would possess him and he would be a red, roaring, devil with seven tails and seven prongs on each tail. Then the gentle spirit of Little Eva would evict the Brunette Egyptian for non-payment of dues and Gink would pick buttercups, knit doilies and walk on his toes. When he was in his gentle mood his playmates called him Sweet Evening Breeze. But when he cut loose in a throw-back to his chimpanzee ancestry, even the porters on the Roughtown Pullman would give him a wide, lower berth.

This dual Siamese personality always kept his backers on the anxious porch. They never knew what character was batting first when Gink stepped into the ring. Sometimes, he would tear in at his opponent and punch him into a rash of blisters. At other times, he would step into the ring and tag his man lightly with his glove. Then Gink would race merrily around the ring until the other fellow tagged him. If Gink was tagged, that would make him "it" and he would chase the other bird. Oftimes he would jump out of the ring and tag a spectator. Soon, five thousand fans would be playing tag. The epidemic would spread until all of Roughtown's fifty thousand ruffians were chasing each other happily. This would continue for weeks. Drummers, hoboes, travellers, tourists and everybody who came to town would grab the spirit of youth and festivity until all traffic, business and commerce were stopped.

This was surely a queer incidence of twin personality.

ENTRIES FOR RUN OF SCHOOL BOYS CLOSES TONIGHT

Names Of Contestants Must Be In At Mixed Court By 6 O'clock

Entries for the schoolboys' cross country run to be held on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Shanghai Harriers' Club will close this evening at 6 o'clock at the office of Mr. T. McKenna at the International Mixed Court. Already four schools have entered for the run, which will start from the Hongkew Park at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon.

Any recognised educational institution may participate in the contest. No limit is placed on the number of entrants from each school. The first four men home from each school will count in the team race.

Prizes will be awarded to the winners of the races as well as the first and second winning teams. The run will begin from Hongkew Park, through Kiangwan Road gate up to the old Kiangwan Road, cross country and on the cinder road along the railway. The distance will be about three miles.

TIENTSIN MAN HIGH JUMPING AT SPRINGFIELD

Delos Walker, Former "Y" Man Is On Massachusetts College Team

Devotees of track and field athletics in Tientsin will be interested in knowing that Delos Walker, former physical director at the local Y.M.C.A. and at Pei Yang University, is still breaking records, although he is now a sedate and successful coal baron, with headquarters at Mahaffey, Pennsylvania.

Newspapers cuttings received recently by his father, Prof. J. W. Walker of the University of Nanking, describe how "Del," jumping in the colors of the Springfield (Mass.) Y. M. C. A., recently broke the New England Association high jump record by a good inch, leaping 5 feet 9 ¾ inches.

A short time before, also at Springfield meeting, Walker vanquished the mighty Moriarity, of Dartmouth over the high stick, and still earlier took 104 points in a hexathlon meet open to all the Associations in the United States and Canada.

General Wood Not Coming To Far Eastern Games

General Leonard Wood, now in Philippines with former Governor-General W. Cameron Forbes and the Harding commission sent to Manila to study conditions, will probably be unable to attend the Far Eastern Championship Games to be held here beginning April 30. Yesterday Dr. John H. Gray, honorary secretary of the China Contest Committee, received a letter from General Wood in which the latter stated that his business in the Philippines was of such import and his time there so limited, that he would probably be unable to attend the games.

The letter was written before General Wood left the United States but the saving of a few days by his going direct from Nagasaki may mean that he will be able to run up here from Manila for the games as it is probable that the Navy would place a destroyer at his disposal.

CANTON DISCOVERS TWO

The Kwangtung provincial meet, held at Canton a week ago, unearthed two men who will be heard from at the Far Easterns. Chen Po'-kee travelled 100 yards in 10 1-5 seconds and this will be good for a second or a third. Catalon, the Filipino, is good for evens and may go under ten seconds if he is pressed. Tsen Ung-too won the high jump with a leap of five feet eight inches.

From Hankow comes the news that the slides and movies of the 1915 games have been shown to audiences of between 700 and 1,000 people every night for two weeks. The pictures have created plenty of interest at Hankow and with a strong committee working it is expected that the games will be well supported from the Wuhan cities.

BOY SCOUTS PROGRAM

Koo Tsing-lai, Kiangsu provincial scout master of the Boy Scouts, is in charge of the Scouts demonstrations to be held at the games and he would like to hear from troops desiring to show. Between 1,000 and 1,200 Scouts will take part in the various demonstrations planned.

Plans of the stands to be erected at Hongkew Park will be submitted to the Municipal Council today. The committee hopes to build a baseball stand to accommodate 1,000, a grandstand to seat 3,000 spectators at the track and field meet and bleachers to provide accommodation for 5,000.

To Allow Athletes Tryouts At Soochow

Chinese who desire to try for places on the China track and field team which will be sent against the Filipinos and Japanese at the Far Eastern championships, will be given opportunity at the East China Intercollegiate meet which is to be held at Soochow on May 14. There will be special events for athletes who are students in schools or colleges not holding membership in the E. C. I. A. A. or who will compete unattached.

EAST CHINA FIVE FINALLY NAMED; GIAUQUE IS COACH

Five Shanghai Men Are Chosen By Committee; T. T. Zee, Manager

Messrs. C. D. Giauque, W. M. Porterfield and C. G. Hoh are elected as committee of three to select basketballers from East China and a meeting was held in the "Y" yesterday afternoon. After a long discussion the following were chosen as members of East China Team.

Shi of Nanking, Tyau and Mo of St. John's, D. S. Feng of Soochow, Liang of G.I.T., T. T. Zee and D. M. Woo of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. T. T. Zee is chosen as the Manager of the team.

Shi probably will come down to St. John's and spend a month there in order to get all the practice that he wants while Feng will come from Soochow every Saturday.

Giauque is to be the Honorary coach of the Team.

YOUNG LADY BALL TOSSERS TO PLAY AMERICAN TARS AT HONGKEW ON SATURDAY

Business Girls Athletic Club To Try Conclusions On Diamond With Team From U.S.S. New Orleans

In an endeavor to put to flight the old fallacy that a woman can't hit the side of a barn—unless she aims in the opposite direction—the Business Girls' Athletic Club of Shanghai has challenged the baseball team of the U.S.S. New Orleans to a contest that will be held next Saturday afternoon at Hongkew Park. Despite the fact that woman's pitching peculiarities will make the role of innocent bystander a highly perilous one, the men of the New Orleans, Quiros, and Monocacy have unanimously accepted an invitation to attend the slaughter. Whether loyalty to their ship or gallantry to the opposing team will govern their cheering was not decided at the time of going to press.

Probably their rooting will be variegated after this fashion: "Go it, Mick!" "Good for you, girls!" "Slide, Harrigan, slide," "Awfully nice play, Miss Johnson."

Anyway, the sailors will be out in full force at three o'clock to attend the game and nothing short of the dynamiting of a battleship will drag them away from it—not until after the last ball has been picked up in a coolie village and the last dill pickle has been demolished in the supper that will follow the contest.

The game which was arranged by the Women's Overseas League, is in charge of the following committees:—representing the Overseas League: Miss Helen Sanger, Miss L. Willis, and Miss H. Murray; representing the Business Girls' Athletic Club—Miss Johnson, captain, Miss Webster, and Miss Reitveld; representing the Navy, Messrs. Taylor, Burman and Fuller.

Come early and bring your bird-cage, in case of stray balls.

BOWLING CLUB MAKES PLANS FOR INTERPORT GAMES

Additional Cup Competitions Promised For Season Starting Soon

Interport games of lawn bowls with Shanghai visiting Hankow and Hongkong and several new cups to be contested for during the season of 1921 were forecasted at the annual general meeting of the Yangtszepoo Lawn Bowls Club held yesterday at Shepherd's Cafe. No program of play during the coming season was given out but it was promised that lawn bowls would be made into one of the most popular sports of Shanghai in 1921. The newly elected committee will arrange for schedules of play.

The financial condition of the lawn bowls club showed such a surplus in a balance on hand that the fees of subscriptions were reduced, the new rates being $5 for both shore and shipping members with the fees for the tennis section to stand as formerly at $5. The latter section has had but one year's life in connection with the lawn bowls club and in spite of an expense for gear and labor for preparation a good showing was made. It was decided to carry the section along for another year at least before passing on its popularity or profitableness.

President B. Anderton presided over yesterday's meeting with Vice-President J. Tweedlie and Committeemen Capt. W. T. Bissett, Vice-Captain W. Smith, F. Ferrier, C. Richards, G. Bloom, and J. E. Wilson, and Hon. Secretary F. Lloyd in attendance.

In reviewing the club's activities for 1920, Mr. Anderton spoke of the successful competitions and expressed gratitude to those donating cups for play during the year thus promoting interest in the play. A good increase in membership with 55 new players enrolling during the year was marked and in spite of many departures for home the loss was more than offset by members returning from leave.

Mr. J. M. Smith was elected unanimously as honorary secretary, to succeed Mr. F. Lloyd, and he occupied the chair during the meeting. Other new officers for the coming year are:

Hon. President, Mr. A. W. Brankston, re-elected; President, Mr. J. Tweedlie, formerly vice-president; Vice-President, Mr. G. Johnson; Committeemen: Messrs. A. Malcolm (Captain); C. Richards (Vice-Captain); E. Broadrick, J. Walker, J. E. Wilson, H. Radford, C. Hepthorne and J. Grieve.

TIENTSIN TEAM NOT COMING HERE FOR JUNE SERIES

Baseballers From North Figure All Games Set For Own Back Yard

BY "JAWN McGROR"

Tientsin, April 25.—Although the Tientsin Baseball Club's team will not participate in the Shanghai games this year, which fact has disappointed some of the better known fans, it can be said with utmost safety that the local enthusiasts will be treated to some of the best baseball ever witnessed in North China.

It is the old story of "Mahomet and the mountain," and as we could not go to Shanghai to meet the best the best must come here to meet us.

After talking the matter over locally amongst the baseball brotherhood, it has been decided to make the California team an offer to come up to Tientsin.

As was decided at the last meeting, both the Peking Marine Team and the Peking Amateur Baseball Club have been approached as to what inducements they could offer, in the way of "big money," to bring the aforementioned teams North.

The writer has seen the reply from the Marines and if all the teams playing in North China show as much "pep" this summer as was expressed in said mentioned letter then the big leagues back home will have nothing on us. The whole plan in a nutshell is to hold a baseball "tournament" in Tientsin while the visiting University team is here.

The teams entering would be as follows: Stanford U., the U. S. Marines, the Peking Amateurs, the 15th Infantry and our own "Champs," the Tientsin "Civvies." Think of it, five (count-'em) man's sized, full fledged baseball teams playing here in Tientsin during one week; for we believe that will be the length of time the California team will stop here. For all teams to play one another it will mean a "double header" every day and every game a whirlwind.

Old Time Star Of Local Diamond Back In Shanghai

"Cy" Seymour, Pilot Of Famous 1910 Red Sox, Returns To East

Mr. C. E. ("Cy") Seymour, old China hand and star performer on the Shanghai baseball diamond of a decade or so agone, has returned to this port and is busy these days receiving the greetings of his many old friends here.

Back in 1910 and 1911 "Cy" was reckoned as the Willow King in local ball field circles, setting a mark for later batsmen to shoot at when, as captain and third baseman for the famous "Red Sox" nine of that vintage, he rapped out a percentage of .457 for one season.

Mr. Seymour returns to Shanghai as factory representative for the Beaver Board Companies, of Buffalo, New York. The Companies own and control the Vulcanite Roofing Co., the American Cement and Plaster Co. and the Best Wallboard Company, besides being engaged in the manufacture of paints and varnishes. Messrs. Dodwell and Co., Ltd., 4 The Bund, are the Shanghai distributors.

Woman's Club Bridge Party

Reservations may still be secured for the bridge party to be given at the Columbia Country Club next Monday evening by the Social Department of the American Woman's Club for the benefit of the Permanent Equipment Fund. An individual ticket may be purchased for two dollars and a table may be reserved for eight dollars.

Owing to the uncertainties of making up fours by means of individual reservations, the committee prefers to reserve whole tables if possible. A room will be prepared for those wishing to play mah-jongg, the popular Chinese game. In the mah-jongg tournament the prize will consist of a set for playing the game, and the bridge prize will be a bridge table.

The committee in charge of the function includes Mesdames T. C. Britton, N. G. Harris, A. N. Lethin, R. B. Nichols, Battersby, and E. G. Stocker. The permanent bridge committee of the Social Department is composed of Mrs. Percy Bryant, Mrs. William Morris, and Mrs. W. A. B. Nichols.

Invitations are extended to men as well as to members of the American Woman's Club.

Portugal Honors Unknown Soldier

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, April 24.—The Portuguese Legation has received from Lisbon, under date of April 12, the following account of the ceremonies of national homage to the Portuguese Unknown Warrior, held on the anniversary of the Battle of April 9:

"Delegates of the Allied Governments and several other foreign missions came to Lisbon to assist in the demonstrations in honor of Portugal's Unknown Warrior and to take part in the celebration of the Battle of April 9. A solemn session of homage was held in the House of Parliament, after which a great cortege followed the coffin to the station. Marshal Joffre, Generalissimo Diaz, General Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien and special representatives of other Governments followed on foot. Special contingents of soldiers, mutilated in the war, with their flags, took part in the procession.

"The President of the Republic and the members of the Diplomatic Corps were waiting at the station. Marshal Joffre Generalissimo Diaz, General Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien and the other military representatives were invited to visit Oporto and Coimbra. The whole ceremony was characterised by great solemnity.

"The University of Oporto conferred degrees of Doctor of Laws (honoris causa) on Marshal Joffre and the other Generals and the municipality conferred on them the freedom of the city.

in relation to articles of food, the quality is of greater relative importance than the price. A smaller quantity of the best quality is, from a health point of view, more beneficial than a large quantity of inferior quality.

Stimulants are suspect now because the war has produced a world shortage of matured spirits. It is better for you to drink one glass of matured spirits than any quantity of immature spirit.

Many lives have been saved by the timely use of good stimulants. Many lives have been lost by the use of bad stimulants.

Your Health Comes First

Good Health is your most valuable asset;—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is wise, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signs of derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Always deal with digestive ailments in time. They are far-reaching in their possibilities of mischief if neglected, as they too often are. And yet it is generally easy to keep fit and well and free from many debilitating ailments by the simple use of

The Semambu Rubber Estates Ltd.

A satisfactory condition of the affairs of the Semambu Rubber Estates, Ltd., was shown yesterday at its eighth annual general meeting, in spite of reduced output due to the 25 percent restriction recommendation. The meeting was held at the offices of the company's general managers, Messrs. R. N. Truman and Co., 103 Szechuen road. Mr. R. N. Truman presided as chairman, supported by Messrs. E. L. Marsh and A. J. Welch, directors. Sixty seven thousand shares were represented.

Resolutions were passed as follows: That the directors' report and statement of accounts for the year 1920 be adopted, proposed by the chairman, seconded by Mr. Marsh; that Mr. A. J. Welch be reappointed a director, proposed by Mr. Marsh, seconded by Mr. Truman; that Mr. R. A. Truman be reappointed as director, proposed by Mr. Marsh, seconded by Mr. Welch, and that Messrs. Howe, Bingham and Matthews be reappointed as auditors, proposed by Mr. R. A. Swan, seconded by Mr. Chang Hai-foo.

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

The chairman's speech follows:

"Gentlemen: As already notified you by circular, the outlying portion of the estate, viz: Ruby division, was opportunely sold in July, 1920 for S.$90,000, less one percent commission; the proceeds of this sale will be used for the further development of the Semambu estate.

"The indentured Javanese labor force was transferred to Semambu, thus relieving the labor situation which was becoming increasingly difficult.

"An area of 17 acres recently acquired from the government was planted during the year. A survey of the 1916-1918 extensions was made by a qualified surveyor which gave the total planted area as 940 acres. We will have between 300 to 400 acres of plantable reserve, of which about 250 acres are in virgin jungle. I visited the estate in February this year and am pleased to be able to state that the property is in excellent condition and being economically managed. During the present depression only essential expenditure for the well being of the estate has been sanctioned, such work as thinning out, drains, etc. being postponed. The labor force as you no doubt are aware, consists of Javanese indentured labor on 3 years contract. Each coolie costs about $140 to recruit so that only coolies whose contracts expire are dispensed with. In ordinary times a large proportion of time expired coolies sign on for a new term thus avoiding recruiting. If there was any indication of the market for raw material improving in the near future our coolies would be retained, as I fear the labor position will be very difficult when we resume full tapping and wish to make further developments.

"Our neighbors, the Jeram Company have decided to avail themselves of the new government road to Kuantan and in consideration of their receiving a right of way and making and upkeeping a road through Semambu, refunded us $4,000 as their contribution to the government road.

YEAR'S OUTPUT REDUCED

"The output for Semambu was 86,793 lbs. compared with an estimate of 150,000 lbs. It would have been considerably more, but for the last 3 months of the year we complied with the Rubber Growers' Association's request for 25 percent restriction. The restricted output for this year is estimated at 165,000 lbs. This figure depends on the continuance of the present restriction policy, which, however, may be altered at any time. The f.o.b. cost of production was 1/1.30, being slightly higher than the previous year. The higher cost is attributable to heavier loss on price, recruiting, and medical and sanitation, due to the enhanced price of all supplies. The sale of 81,218 lbs. of rubber realised an average net price at port of shipment of 1/11.29 compared with 1/8.99 last year. The unsold stock of 51,450 lbs. has been valued below cost of production at the agent's valuation. Mr. Hillitoe continued as manager of the estate to the satisfaction of all concerned and Major Stevens of the firm of Milne and Stevens was appointed visiting agent in the place of Mr. Le Poer Power who has retired from the East.

"Now turning to the accounts. You will note from the balance sheet that we are fortunately in a sound financial position and in consequence will be able to stand a long period of depression. The investment of £10,000 British War Loan became due in December, 1920. In order to pay off the bank overdraft, £2,000 was converted into Taels at 4/3¼, and the £8,000 appearing in the balance sheet at an exchange of 4/1 has since been converted into Taels @ 3/3½, which transaction will show an exchange profit in next year's accounts. The purchase money received from the sale of Ruby estate has been written off the property and development account. The profit and loss account shows a profit of Tls. 15,025.57 to which must be added the amount brought forward from last year Tls. 20,418.18 leaving 35,443.75.

"The directors recommend that the profit shall be dealt with as follows:

	Tls.
Write off buildings ...	719.89
Write off live and rolling stock	54.72
Pay commission to estate manager	356.65
	1,131.26
Leaving to be carried forward	34,312.49
	35,443.75

"I trust that in view of the present condition of the industry you will approve of the directors' recommendations.

"The estate is being run at a heavy monthly loss and there is at present no sign of any immediate improvement in the price of the produce."

STORM KILLS MASON

Death as the result of the thunder storm of Monday evening was the verdict returned at an inquest held yesterday over the body of a Chinese mason by Magistrate Kwan and Assessor Jacobs. The victim, with half-a-dozen other workmen was engaged in work on a roof in the Yang Ka Aung village, Jessfield, when the storm interrupted their labors. After eating his evening meal he was sitting on a stool near a doorway when there came a sharp flash of lightning and he collapsed. No marks were found on the body and, no post mortem examination having been made, the court held that the man had either been struck by the lightning, or had died of heart failure as a result of the flash.

Cheaper Freight Rates Made From Western U.S. Ports

Cheap freight rates from the Pacific Coast ports of America to Shanghai, China and the Orient, have been agreed upon in the North Atlantic and Pacific Westbound Conference held recently in America. The result of the reduction will mean that freights from Western America can be brought to China and the Orient in more even competition with shipments from Atlantic ports.

The new rates include:

Iron and steel, $5.88 per ton; automobiles, $8.00 per ton; machinery $9.00 per ton; tractors, $10 per ton; tobacco, 75 cents per 100 pounds, and cigarettes 50 cents per 100 pounds. The low rate of $6.50 on iron and steel and $10 on machinery will also remain in effect to Tientsin and North China ports.

This means a reduction from approximately $6.50 to $5.83 on iron and steel with corresponding reductions in the other articles. On tobacco, the reductions is estimated at 50 cents per 100 pounds, and more than 20 percent on cigarettes.

Six New Teachers For American School

Instructors Will Arrive For Fall Term; Six Go On Leave

Word has just been received that the six new teachers needed to complete the staff of the Shanghai American School for next September have all been engaged and will sail so as to reach Shanghai about September 1. The list includes a man for physical training, a man for the department of science, a woman for the department of Latin, a woman for the fifth and sixth standards, a woman for the piano department and a woman as office assistant.

These teachers come to fill the vacancies of teachers who will leave on their furloughs. The school will lose at the end of the present year several teachers of long standing in Shanghai. Miss Rhodes, the head of the department of Latin and Miss Adams, the teacher of vocal music, have been connected with the school for six years, while Miss Thomason, the primary teacher, has been connected with the school for five years. Miss Bailey, the teacher of Fifth and Sixth Standards, and Miss La Mond, the piano teacher, have each been connected with the school for four years, while Mr. Burgess, the science teacher, has been connected with the school but two.

Most of these teachers are expecting to return after their furlough. Several, however, are planning to spend one or two years in further study before returning.

Shopkeepers Ban Light Weight Coins

Shopkeepers in Shanghai will refuse to accept light weight coppers beginning today as a result of a decision by the Amalgamated Street Unions. A circular containing the decision was sent to all the Street Unions yesterday, pointing out the difference between those which should not be accepted and those which are considered legal tender.

The coins banned are described as those having a slightly yellowish color the weight of which is less than 90 percent of the standard. It is alleged that many of these coins were imported from Japan, while others are minted by individuals in Shanghai and the interior of China. A strict vigilance will be exercised by the shopkeepers over the import and the manufacture of the light weight coppers.

Hongkong Debating Proposed Stamp Bill

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, April 26.—The Legislative Council yesterday debated the Stamp Duty Bill. The Government amendments include the abandonment of the stamp duties on agreements of sale of goods, wares, merchandise and property, also the reduction of the duties on partnership instruments, bills of lading, charter parties, conveyances of sale, share transfers, share contracts and share warrants to bearer.

The Officer Administering the Government expressed his doubts as to the wisdom of the issue of short-term loans for public works, and denied the charge of extravagance which has been brought against the Government. He maintained that the present financial position vindicated the bill.

The Council adjourned till the 28th.

Philippine Party Asks Independence

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, April 26.—The Nacionalista party, which is the dominant party in Philippine politics, has passed a resolution reaffirming its demand for immediate independence, and is preparing to memorialise General Leonard Wood and ex-Governor-General Forbes, opposing any form of retention of the Islands by the United States.

CHITA WORRIED OVER SITUATION IN WEST SIBERIA

Take Measures To Avert Risings; Would Unite Soviet And Republic

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, April 26.—The disturbed situation in Western Siberia is causing uneasiness in Chita, and the authorities in Irkutsk and Chita are busily engaged in taking precautionary measures to avert risings in Eastern Siberia and the Buffer State.

A state of ferment exists in the Blagoveshchensk district, where anti-Bolshevik patrols of Cossacks have made their appearance.

The Communists have taken alarm, and now wish to establish Soviet methods in the Buffer State, and are even talking of abolishing the regime in the Buffer State and uniting the Far Eastern Republic with Soviet Siberia.

Thirty-six cases of plague had been reported here up to yesterday.

ASKS BAN ON PATENTS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, April 25.—The Secretary of War, Mr. John W. Weeks, has asked Congress to pass legislation limiting the granting of patents to foreigners. Mr. Weeks said that 201 ordnance patents had been obtained by Germans since July 1, last, all of which had been transferred to Krupps' at Essen.

The Railway Car Loan Chinese Banking Group

POSTPONEMENT OF DATE FOR OPENING TENDERS

Upon the request of some of the bidders, we and the Ministry of Communications agree to postpone the date of opening the tenders for wagons and locomotives to be furnished to the Chinese Railways to 2 p.m., June 29th, 1921 instead of June 15th, 1921 as advertised previously in order to give the bidders more time to make careful estimates.

Drawings and specifications for the six locomotives of the English type for the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway are ready and may be obtained from the head office of the Chinese Banking Group upon payment of $10.00 (Chinese Currency). As these drawings and specifications are thirty sets in all, each bidder is limited to one set only.

We beg to inform the bidders that from April 12th, 1921, the drawings and specifications for the wagons and locomotives of the Prairie, Mikado and Pacific types are no more on sale.

BONUS SHARE ISSUE, 1921

Notice to Holders of Share Warrants to Bearer.

Holders of Share Warrants to bearer desiring to participate in the Bonus Distribution should lodge their Share Warrants (between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m., on any day except Saturday) at the Registered Offices of the Company, Basildon House, Moorgate Street, London, E. C. 2, or between the hours of 9.30 a.m. and 12 noon and between 2.30 p.m. and 4.30 p.m., on any day except Saturday at the Central Office of the Company in Shanghai, Traction House, 7, Soochow Road, Shanghai, with a form of claim, which will be supplied on application at either office.

An Interim Receipt will be issued to depositors, and the Share Warrants will, in due course, be returned, marked "Rights (1921) Claimed," against production of such Interim Receipt.

The new shares will be allotted as Registered Shares, and can only be allotted to those persons by whom the deposit of the Share Warrants is expressed to be made, and not to a nominee, and cannot be allotted in joint names.

Fractions of new shares will be allotted to a Trustee, and will be sold for the benefit of those entitled, and the proceeds of sale will be paid to them accordingly.

Share Warrants must be deposited at the Company's Offices in London or Shanghai, as above, on or before the 1st day of June, 1921, or such later date as may be fixed by the Directors.

The new shares, relative to existing shares represented by Share Warrants not deposited within the prescribed time, or such extended time as the Directors may fix, will be allotted to a Trustee for the benefit of those entitled, and may, on production of the Share Warrants in London or Shanghai as above, be claimed, together with the proceeds of fractions (if any), and all dividends which may have been paid on the said shares in the meantime. Upon such claim being admitted by the Directors, a transfer of the shares, and a cheque for the proceeds of fractions and dividends (if any), will be issued in due course by the Trustee.

The new shares will not rank for any dividend declared, or to be declared, in respect of the year 1920.

By order of the Board,
L. W. HAWKINS,
Secretary.
19th April, 1921.

Returned Students Present Collection To British Museum

Library Will Be Taken To England By Sir James Stuart-Lockhart

The local Sino-British Students Club have purchased a set of the Chinese Classical Library for the purpose of presenting it to the British Museum. The present is intended as a token of the kind regards and affection felt by the members of the Club towards their old friends in Great Britain.

The library consists of over 2,000 volumes, published by the Commercial Press Ltd., of practically all the noteworthy Chinese Classical authors on various subjects of study. It is next to the Emperor Chien Lung's collection of which there are only four copies in China, the largest collection of books ever published in China.

A very interesting feature possessed by the Library is that a great many of the books in the collection are facsimile reproduction of rare old editions of the Sung, Yuan and Ming dynasties. And its popularity is shown by the fact that the whole of the first and second editions have been taken up by subscribers in China and Japan.

The library will be taken to England home by Sir James H. Stuart-Lockhart, who will also make the presentation on behalf of the club.

The Peking Pot Boils

AFTER a short period of comparative quietude, Japanese capitalists in Peking are once more active in attempting to gain control of China's resources and to destroy healthy competition in the industrial field of the Republic.

They are maneuvering to place Tsao Ju-lin in the Ministry of Finance. They see their great chance in the Tientsin Conference, which must result in a reorganisation of the Cabinet.

The Japanese hope to remove the Chiaotung clique from the Ministry of Finance, a clique which they accuse of being pro-American. The weapon they hope to make use of grows out of the approaching expiration of some of the Japanese loan agreements made by China in Tsao's days of power. The Japanese will press for payment and the Chiaotung clique, as represented today by Chow Tse-chi in the Finance Ministry and Yeh Kung-cho in the Ministry of Communications, will not be able to meet the obligations.

Tsao then can sit into the game with the full financial support of the Japanese. In the first place, he, or his ministry need not meet the obligations falling due; the terms of the agreements will be extended. Further, the Japanese are said to have promised him a new loan of $5,000,000 to be used for the expected military adventures of Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin.

In the face of the financial stringency among the warlords in North China, it is likely that Tsao, Chang and Wang Chuan-yuan of Hupeh will be forced to accept Tsao Ju-lin as the successor of Chow Tse-chi.

After Tsao Ju-lin's assumption of office, it is expected that the Japanese will take steps to bring about cancellation of the Federal Wireless Agreement signed by China and the United States and then attempt to carry out the terms of the Mitsui wireless loan; to sanction the sale of the enemy property in the German and Austrian Settlements in Tientsin and to seize other industrial rights.

Meanwhile Tsao Ju-lin is making daily visits to the headquarters of Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin, asking for terms. The latter, however, are not expected to commit themselves until after talking with Wang Chuan-yuan, and possibly General Wu Pei-fu.

All these intrigues, according to our informant, are known to be in motion, and if they are, there is plenty of reason for the present political tension.

Orange, The New Shade

Many of the new hats are made of orange-colored straw, felt or crin, trimmed with flowers or velvet ribbon. Orange is the new shade, replacing last season's rust color. In shape we find the small, close-fitting hat usually taking unto itself some sort of brim. It is replacing the small Turkish turban. Hats will either be quite small or quite large, and, as though to accentuate themselves even more, they show a falling bow, streamers or a feather, which protrudes beyond the brim.

The Kaiser In Exile

Is He Mad? The Wonder Is, He Cries, 'That I Am Still Sane'

BY LADY NORAH BENTINCK
(Niece of Count Bentinck, the Kaiser's Host at Amerongen)

I distrust the man who protests that he is honest.

I pity the man who protests that he is sane.

The asylums of the world are full of poor wretches who will tell you with tears in their eyes that they are as sane as you are.

And perhaps they are, save for some one delusion, which in itself may be harmless. Unfortunately for the world, Wilhelm II was obsessed with the delusion of grandeur, and even today, a lonely, hated exile in a little Dutch village, he still clings to the habits, dreams and ambitions of a lifetime.

A few weeks after his abdication, while he was the guest of my uncle at Amerongen, the subject of his reputed insanity fascinated him. None knew better than he the hereditary taint that flowed in the veins of the Hohenzollerns.

"The world says I am mad," he cried, "but if it knew with what tremendous difficulties I have had to contend it would perhaps be surprised that I am still at all sane."

Always to the Kaiser, as to all ego-maniacs, the difficulties which he surmounts, the dangers that he passes through, the triumphs that he achieves are colossal.

What were the problems of a Ludendorff or a Hindenburg compared with those that he had to solve?

What were the risks of his front-line troops compared to the daily danger that hung over him—even though to an Allied World he seems to have been reasonably safe far back behind the range of the most powerful gun.

We have all of us known the person who falls into the habit of exaggerating until it becomes impossible to state truthfully even the simplest facts. In Wilhelm's case this ability for self-deception assumed such monstrous proportions that no disasters, no reverses, not even the united denunciation of civilisation can break through the shell of self-complacency which, like a cocoon, he has built around his shrivelled self.

HIS REPUDIATION

What puzzled the ex-Kaiser for long was that the German people, who had been so obedient to his will, so dazzled by his might and so fulsome in adulation for thirty years, should have so lightly let him go in November, 1918; and, moreover, that they should have abandoned him "the Aller-Hochste," for persons whose position was not such as to gain them much public esteem in official-worshipping Germany, persons destitute alike of social prestige and of experience with the complicated art of governing.

That, indeed, puzzles him still; but he has some explanations ready, now that he has had leisure to reflect on the events of that November. The ease with which the change was made was, in his opinion, due largely to a misrepresentation of the motives which caused him to flee to Holland!

The German people, he thinks, were led to believe that by his flight he had deserted them in their hour of greatest need, and, as a result, anger against him became as bitter as trust before had been complete.

Perhaps they would not have accepted this view, and certainly would not have submitted to their new leaders, had they not been badly shaken by propaganda and by privations at home and bewildered by the disasters in the field; and, above all, if the Allied resolve to make "no peace with a Hohenzollern" had not been dinned into their ears.

A contributory factor is believed to have been the work of the German Socialists. They had for more than two years sought to break the fighting spirit of the army and of the youths whose turn was coming to fill the ranks.

Mothers and wives (this is the official version) had been paid a weekly sum as bribe to write distressed and distressing letters to relatives at the front, with a view to weakening their morale as much as possible.

The imputation that his flight was due to concern for his own bodily safety without regard to the people's interest still rankles in the ex-Kaiser's mind. What else was there for him to do but withdraw? he asks; and then he goes over and over again the story of the first days of the revolution.

'GIVE ME SOME TROOPS'

He proposed to go to Berlin. "Give me some troops," he said to Hindenburg. "There are no troops that will follow your majesty there," replied the veteran. "What! None?" "None, your majesty!"

He then thought he would reach Berlin somehow, anyhow, to be at the heart of the trouble. His entourage urged him not to go, as that would only add to the country's plight without any advantage to him. Then Prince Max of Baden's hasty announcement of an abdication proved decisive.

It has been pointed out that Hindenburg on his return to Berlin got a magnificent reception; but that was after he had taken the armies back, and Hindenburg was not the Kaiser; his presence did not affect the political situation.

Suicide as an alternative to flight was freely spoken of in England, people perhaps remembering how often the Kaiser's ancestor, Frederick the Great, had contemplated this escape from the evils that followed his too frequent wars.

But there were plenty of precedents for the flight of monarchs and their temporary or permanent residence outside their country during revolutions; and the ease with which Holland could be reached must have been tempting.

I heard the theory discussed that it would have been to the advantage of the dynasty, or, at any rate, of the monarchical idea, not to sign the armistice conditions offered.

It is considered that had Baron von Lersner, representing the old school, and not Herr Erzberger, representing the transitional, been in charge of the German side during the negotiations the history for the next few months would have been written differently.

A refusal to sign and a continued retreat before the Allied armies would not necessarily, according to this view, have involved much additional slaughter; the German army had not then sufficient fit divisions to do much fighting.

ALLIES IN BERLIN

An Allied occupation of Berlin would have followed; but this, the monarchists think, would have led to the establishment of order and, by bringing food and relief in its train, would have produced greater contentment and checked any tendency to revolutionary excesses.

We all know that the Germans do not dislike the Allied occupation of the Cologne area, and that conditions have been much more comfortable there than anywhere else.

The possibility that an Allied advance into Germany would have entailed great loss of life is scouted, and the question is asked: "Would there have been so much as there subsequently was in the revolutionary struggles in the Ruhr region and elsewhere?"

I noticed that monarchists, while brooding over such ideas, were more angry against their fellow Germans for abandoning the Kaiser than against the Allies for trying to effect that; the later was an understandable course in enemies, the former an unforgivable crime!

And the more the Kaiser reflects on the circumstances of his fall, the more does it appear to him that "the unkindest cut of all" came from his former subjects rather than from his enemies.

Whether or not his was a disproportionate share of the glory resulting from Germany's pre-war achievements, still he felt that he had striven to do and had done great things for the country in all departments of world trade and politics. The war—but that is another story, and there, also, he thinks he can make a case before Germans for the part he played.

And, after all, for whom and what was he displaced? It is a recurring thought that leaves him marvelling.

During his exile the ex-Kaiser has meditated much on the respective advantages of autocracy and constitutional monarchy. His conclusion is, I gathered, that a limited monarchy is the form of government best suited in our days—a fairly obvious one for him after his experiences.

HE DISMISSED BISMARCK

Another conclusion was that Germany ruled over by him was not ready for such a form of government. But that he did anything to prepare the country for it was not apparent to the world.

Everybody remembers his summary dismissal of Prince Bismarck in the first flush of his attainment of imperial power. "What made you send him away?" Count Godard Bentinck asked him when the Iron Chancellor's name cropped up in conversation during one of the long evenings at Amerongen.

"Let nobody think I did not admire Bismarck," he replied. "I think he was one of the most remarkable men of the age. But I was very young and I saw that Bismarck would be the uncrowned Emperor. I could not tolerate that. He or I had to go."

There spoke the true ego-maniac, who dismissed in a sentence the foremost man of his times, whose story from 1862 to 1890 is the story of Germany.

By some strange freak of fate, Wilhelm evidently made the decision which involved the whole world in war, on the sixteenth anniversary of the death of Bismarck, who died June 30, 1898.

It seems as if even after death the name of the Iron Chancellor must still be connected with the life of the empire he actually founded, and ruled until that eventful day in 1890, when the youthful Wilhelm dismissed the great statesman who had saved the Prussian throne to the Hohenzollerns and had guided a united Germany to prosperity and fame.

HIS VIEWS HAVE CHANGED

As the years went on Wilhelm learned to accept much that was "intolerable" to him earlier. In the later stages of his career as ruler, says Count Czernin (Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister in part of the war period), in his recent book, "he never acted independently of his councillors. At the time when I had official dealings with him he might have served as a model for constitutional conduct."

But though he had to recognise there were limits to his power at home—as witness his remark to Count Godard, quoted in a previous article, that President Wilson was more an autocrat than he—it was always repugnant to him to suffer any infringement of his absolute control of State affairs.

I doubt if the idea is any less repugnant to him now, clearly though he sees an even greater limitation was necessary.

To get a mental picture of the man's environment—and environment is nearly everything—one must remember that the "divine right" of kings was not merely a phrase but a reality to him, confirmed by the traditions of his house, his training from babyhood upward, and his dazzling position in the eyes of the world, and that he was a vice-regent of Christ.

There is no doubt that he was attracted by the idea of reviving, in an extended form, the "Holy Roman Empire," in which Pope and Emperor might be welded together to rule Europe, one in spiritual matters, the other in material.

It is a mediaeval obsession from which other kings have suffered—one might instance Philip II of Spain's conception of his place in the universe as illustrated by the mode of address he required in all important documents submitted to him: "God and Your Majesty."

With flatterers fawning at his feet and higher-placed sycophants surrounding him and seeking his favor by hiding unpleasant facts from him, with sixty millions of Germans putting photographs of "Unser Kaiser" in their front parlors and chorusing praise, it was easy to imagine he was a demi-god, beneficent and beloved, if on occasion awe-inspiring, and not surprising that he found it at times "tremendously difficult" to reconcile hard realities with pleasing fancies.

TRIED TO PREVENT WAR

No wonder he contrasts with some envy the strong foundations and established functions of limited monarchy with the deceptive illusions and uncertainties of autocracy!

At Amerongen all talk sooner or later turned to the war. And the ex-Kaiser steadily maintains that he did all he could to prevent war. "God knows I am innocent of what my enemies charge me with, and that to me is the main thing," he says.

It is true that there was much that was contradictory in the arguments I heard repeated, some of them on the familiar lines that the mere march of events would inevitably have brought the rivalry of Britain and Germany to a head in an armed clash, later, if not in 1914; but when did strict logic ever rule a man—or a woman?

An experience of my own, however, throws some light on the ex-Kaiser's claim. I was on my way back from Bayreuth to England on August 1, 1914. As our long, overladen train dragged itself slowly through the peaceful country, where the ripe corn was lazily waving in the late afternoon sunshine, I stood for a long time at the window of the corridor, long enough to see the light go.

Then from the shadows outside I heard the low muffled words. They seemed to me to be thrown at the slow-moving train in a curious Sphinx-like, fatalistic way, "Mobil ist's. . . Mobil ist's. . . Mobil ist's. . . Then I saw it was from the "Landsturm" posted at intervals along the line that the catastrophic words came.

The British mind at once jumped to the conclusion: "So this is then 'Der Tag.'" (At Amerongen, by the way, they would have none of "Der Tag" idea. They said it was a tiny and very unimportant matter which the English press had magnified.)

For the remainder of that journey through Germany I talked with many Germans. They left me under the impression that they looked upon the Emperor as being against war.

BLAME BRITAIN

I remember distinctly one sentence: "The Kaiser is the Peace-Kaiser. He doesn't want war. But the Crown Prince wants war."

And I remember, too, that in the German newspapers which we read feverishly that day it was pointed out that in Berlin the Kaiser was coolly received, and that the Crown Prince, on the other hand, was vociferously cheered because it was believed he wanted war.

People in England have often been puzzled as to why Germany went to war. She was winning the commerce of the world and the power which that carries—then how extraordinarily stupid of her to plunge into the risks of war! I pointed out this view to Captain von Ilsemann, the Kaiser's aide-de-camp, with the added comment that the British certainly did not seek a fight.

"But would Britain have sat down quietly for another ten years and watched us absorbing the commerce of the world?" he replied. "Surely not, as it would mean ruin for her. It was natural she should wish to stop our development. War was the only way to do it. So——!"

"I congratulate you," he continued. "Britain has achieved most fully and gloriously what she went out to achieve. She has put Germany back twenty years. . . . It remains for her to keep what she has wrested from Germany."

I saw some similarity in this to the views of a German General at a dinner party in Dresden in November, 1909, and I related my conversation with him to Captain von Ilsemann.

GENERAL'S WAR TALK

The General, elderly, fat, and with long overhanging eyebrows, was sitting next to me, and immediately after we had finished soup he turned to me and asked in perfect English: "And do you believe we are going to war with England?"

Feeling that it did not in the least matter what I thought, I nevertheless responded," "Yes, I do think so." "Why, we love your beautiful England." "Yes," I answered, "you love her because you would like to possess her—that's the way you love her!"

At this he laughed very much. "But why should we want war? We are both happy and contented" he continued. I answered, "Well, England comes first in the world. If I were a German

LINES FROM BOOKS
Those Racing Novels

"Though I have never read a racing novel, I can imagine it quite easily. Lord Newmarkit's old home is mortgaged, mortgaged everywhere. His house is mortgaged, his park is mortgaged, his stud is mortgaged, his tie-pin is mortgaged, yet he wants to marry Lady Angela. How can he restore his old home to its earlier glories? There is only one chance. He must put his shirt (the only thing that isn't mortgaged) on Fido for the Portland Vase. Fido is a rank outsider—most of the bookmakers thought he was a foxterrier, not a horse—and he is starting at a thousand to one. When the starting-gate goes up, Fido will carry not only Lord Newmarkit's shirt, but Lady Angela's happiness. Was there ever such a race before in the history of racing? Only in the five thousand other racing novels."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

The Kaiser In Exile

I might want to go to war. I should hate to be No. 2 in the world."

He paused a moment; then, bending toward me and resting his hand on my arm, said slowly, "There speaks the proud Englishwoman. And you are quite right, my dear. We do want to go to war, but not until England is weak enough and Germany is strong enough. To have war with England we must have more seaboard. But Belgium and Holland—what!" and he made a significant gesture with his hands.

Then, shaking his forefinger at me, he said, "England is now at 3 o'clock, when the sun shines brightest."

Captain von Ilsemann's comment on the story was that there was this view in certain military circles, and there was always a more or less aggressive party in all countries.

RUSSIA BLAMED

There was never any hesitation at Amerongen in fixing the blame for the actual outbreak of war in 1914 on Russia. Indeed, it was an article of faith in the entourage that St. Petersburg had set the great machinery in motion.

"It was a war made by bureaucrats," the Kaiser said on one occasion. Soukomlinoff, the Russian Minister of War, was the villain of the piece. I was told of the exile's view of "Soukomlinoff's treachery." How he had forced the Tsar in a really terrible interview to sign against his will the order for general mobilisation; how the Tsar later regretted his action, sent for the Minister and instructed him to cancel the order; how the Minister replied that the order was already being carried out and could not be countermanded without hopeless confusion; and how, in saying so, he was lying; the unissued order being in his pocket at that moment.

The Tsar, is it understood, signed the order on the afternoon of Wednesday, July 29. As to when it was issued there is a conflict of evidence, regarding which an experience of my own has, I think, an important bearing.

Bethmann-Hollweg, in his book published last year, said: "Then on the morning of July 31, General Soukomlinoff . . . finally convinced the Tsar himself on the necessity of mobilisation." With this H. C. O'Neil, in his "History of the War," agrees: "It was at this point, July 31, that Russia decided to announce general mobilisation."

But my point is that as the news of the Russian mobilisation was known in Germany on July 30, Soukomlinoff must have issued the order when it was signed, i.e., on July 29.

From July 20 to August 1, 1914, I was at Bayreuth, in Bavaria, for the Wagner Festival. On July 30 I motored with friends to Rothenburg, a slow, mediaeval town in Germany, and that night dined with Count Z——, who had three sons in smart German regiments.

I shall always remember his fury against the Russians. I can see him now, strutting up and down the room like a bantam cock—he was a small man and had covered himself for that occasion with medals which he had gained, I believe, at the battle of Sadowa.

RUSSIAN MOBILISATION

"Es ist unverschamt (it is positively shameless) of the Russians to mobilise against us," he said angrily. "How dare they send —— (mentioning the number) army corps to fight us? They must be mad! What are they doing it for?

His intense fury with the Russians was quite unintelligible to me at that time, and, moreover, I was far too much taken up with the music I had been hearing in the last few days and the unique charm of Rothenburg to be really interested in politics.

But he, at any rate, knew on July 30 of the Russian mobilisation. And the scene came back vividly to me when, in Holland in 1919, I heard the talk about Soukomlinoff.

Perhaps, as I am on the subject of the war, I may be permitted to recall an omen. In February, 1914, I was at Port Said on my way to Jerusalem, and while I was in the boat an Indian soothsayer came up to me begging to tell my fortune. As this is a temptation I never can refuse, I acquiesced.

The soothsayer squatted down on the deck. Before him he placed a small square of silk. Slowly, grain by grain, he poured upon it a little pile of fine sand. Over this he waved his small brown hands in a series of cabalistic signs. Little by little, under the hypnotism of his hands, the sand seemed to pile itself up into a perfect cone.

For a moment he stared intently at the sand. Gradually an expression of horror came into his face, and he started back as though really frightened by the images he had evoked.

In spite of myself I was impressed.

"What did you see?" I asked.

"August—August," he whispered in awe-struck tones, "something terrible in August."

THE HORRIBLE PROPHECY

"Do you mean something terrible is going to happen to me in August?" I cried.

Fully a moment he looked at me with eyes that flashed scorn, as though I were too insignificant to be affected by the revelation that had come to him.

"Not to you. To the world. Blood—blood in August."

And sometimes as my memory goes back to that queer Oriental figure and the uncanny accuracy of his prophecy, I wonder what he would foresee for the world today.

Is the Republic of Germany a house of cards?

Was it erected merely as a German ruse to obtain better terms from the Allies?

A growing number of students of world politics say "Yes!" and they argue thus: Germany was not decisively beaten, but she knew she could not win. While she was still fairly strong she wanted an "honorable" peace.

The Allied statesmen, foremost among whom President Wilson, had declared they would not deal with the Hohenzollerns; that it was a war for democracy and that autocrats must go. He who runs may read.

Peace was necessary; the Kaiser must step down for the good of Germany; a republic, a democracy must be set up to be greeted as a sister by the other democracies. The stage set, the Allies were sure to be lenient.

But each day indications point more and more to a recall of the Kaiser. The republic has done its work. It has camouflaged Germany's activities, resources, and man-power. The Empire seems to be on the eve of a re-awakening; not Berlin to Bagdad, but Berlin to Tokio is the new Pan-German dream.

Such a movement seems actually to be afoot. The junkers speak openly of the restoration of the Hohenzollerns, and have started a movement to annex Austria to Germany.

The German people at large are still loyal to the Kaiser. Even the Republican officials are unduly deferent. Letters, round-robins and telegrams pour in on the ex-Kaiser. Propaganda is working quietly but effectively for the return of the Hohenzollerns to the throne of a greater Germany.

It seems to be a question only of how soon.

New Spirit Among Girls

BY W. A. McKEEVER

Professor Of The University Of Kansas And An Authority On Child Training

"To promote high ethical standards in business and professions in which women shall qualify.

"To promote interest and activity in the civic and moral welfare of the community.

"To broaden our outlook and increase our knowledge by contact with persons of varied interests."

Thus fifty young women of Bartlesville, Oklahoma, announce to the world their purpose and pledge of achievement—not to be merely "out for a good time," not to be merely "ladies in waiting" for a life partner to put in his claim—but to become at once efficient members of society.

"Allois," which, being interpreted, means "for others"; that is the name of the club. Two qualifications are necessary for membership: first, high moral character; second, the ability to be self-supporting.

But, as evidence that this busy young women's organisation is doing rather than merely dreaming, consider the following: Just now the entire State of Oklahoma is considerably wrought up over a "better cities campaign." Twenty-five towns are each trying for a prize of $2,500 to be awarded to the one which scores the highest as a place to bring up children.

Bartlesville had not made the start until this Allois Club took hold of the matter. The members called to lunch with them the leaders of every club, society and organisation in the city, including the Mayor.

Following the lunch and as planned by these busy girls, four hours of mass meetings, conferences and public addresses followed. As a result, the campaign for better children was launched with enthusiasm, with a central working committee and all necessary plans.

Now, girls of the type constituting the "Allois Club" are the very salt of the earth among young women. "To promote interest and activity in the civic and moral welfare of the community"—that is the magic motto which gives the key to the wealth and worth of this worthy group.

"Allois"—"for others." Let us spread the name and fame of this happy group until its valuable achievements, both actual and contemplated, may become a working model for the entire country.

"THE REASON WHY"

Is a mother's love for her offspring greater than that for her cherished husband?

A countess posing as a peasant girl. But, "The Reason Why" was sufficient.
